HONGKONG, NOVEMBER 24TH, 1893,

During the last week or two there has been a marked and very welcome revival in our local stock market, and the tone is healthier all round than it has been since the great collapse. For some time past it has been evident that there was no lack of confidence in local financial circles, but simply a luck to convert their silver capital into gold in anticipation of the fall in exchange the Colony has been almost denuded of ready hold of than the old four-and-twopenny one, and as one means of checking the drain to places where clean dollars are in request the Bauks have recently been defacing Mr. Gordbunds last year presented Bombay the season. This is probably an exaggoration India. of the scarcity, but at all events we are not. quite so badly off as that in Hongkong, though the discredited metal is about as scarces commodity as could be named at the present time. While money remains so scarce it necessarily follows that there can be no very large recovery of values. Profits on trade are being all along the British coast, and also on the Conmade, however, in a moderate way, and as | tinent, many wroke have taken plus and many small abcumulations come on the market for | bundreds of lives have been lost. investment they induce a tendency towards higher prices in the stock market. There has lately been a little demand for theres from the Coast Ports, and hence the miniature boom we have been enjoying during the last fortnight. The market has been pretty well cleared of weak holders, and of torpedo stations in narrow waters. shares are now generally held by people who have no inclination to sell at present prices and who can only be induced to part with them when the prices are put up a few points so as to enable them to realise a profit on what they paid for them. All the Companies are doing well and showing earning powers largely out of proportion to the figure at which the stocks stand on the market. That the lowest point is quotations has been touched, however, everyone scems to be agreed, and investors, recognising in the corresponding week of last year. For The Professor happened to notice onsmally while that they are likely to have to pay more the week enting November 18 the death-rate conversing with some friends, a balcony bathed the longer they wait, are coming forward in relatively large numbers, But do not anticipate that the recent upward movement will be long continued it will be checked as soon as the focal demand has been satisfied, and prices will then remain steady at the advance until the appearance of the next batch of investors in the market gives them another unward accomplished with purely local capital, and until the money which has been withdrawn to Europe begins to flow back anto the colony we can hardly hope to see stocks get back to anything like the market value which their earning powers warrant When home capitalists are once satisfied that and very lively times will be seen. It may be a question of a year or two or only of few months, but silver has sustained the worst blows that could happen to it and it cannot be very long, we think, before it settles down on some stable basis with reference to gold. In the meantime the 393 holders of local stocks have every reason to be satisfied with their present position as regards the dividend earning power of their investments and they may confidently look forward to a considerable addition to their capital by the appreciation in the value of their stocks. Even the holders of gold nining share appear likely to have their patience rewarded before very long. dividend on the preference shares, of the

Punjom Company being expected almost immediately. Altogether the outlook is a cheerful one. It is to be hoped, however, that it will not lead to any revival of the gambling which has proved so disastrous in the past, but that investors will operate strictly within their means. Gambling is risky at the best of times, and is certainly so in the Hongkong share market at the present time, for although things look charging waste waters into the side channel of bright at the moment we cannot be certain

Mr. Skerichly commenced yesterday a series Ranb gold mine; to which it was shown that the the corner of the Poking Road to the Garden assist at such an unique combination as that of of twelve lectures on Prehistorio Man, to the "Odd Volume." in continuation of his cours upon Evolution. His subject was the nature of the sviden for man's great antiquity, as now accepted by all geologists and anthropologists. The evidence upon which the modern scientiflo belief in the great antiquity of the Humar Ruce is base is of two kinds; that of the remains, and that of the age of the deposits in which the remains are found. It is to the latter question that this lecture was devoted; the tormer will be treated of subsequently. The determination of the age of any rock The geological age of a rock is decided by its position in the series of strata, that is to say by its order of superposition, and by the nature of its fossil remains. Leaving out of sight for the present the ev

It therefore becomes of importance to endeavour to assign a date in years to that period. Certain complex astronomical phenomena point to the possibility of such an era of rapid charge of climate commencing about 2 0,000 years ago, and terminating about 80,000 years ago, and many geologists believe that here we have, not only a pera course of the glacial period; but a true chronological date for it; and this opinion the lecturer held until coming out to the Far East. But he now believes we must abundon this fascinating theory, for we all believed the glacial period was a cosmic phenomenon, leaving its traces everywhere in high latitudes. This he was now convinced is not the case, and northern Asia certainly shows no evidence of former glaciation, or even of ever having been so cold as at present. What wave rise to the glacial period is a question he could not discuss there, but he believes we shall flud it is not so ancient as we formerly imagined, and that some $0,000 years would be sufficient to cover the while range of

We must remember in this connection that the actual date of the glacial period has nothing to do with the proofs of the untiquity of man. That is established upon the most reliable of evidence. It is not even essential that man should be so closely associated with the gliqual period as bere advocated to establish his claims to antiquity. These claims are based, as we have

THE CHILDREN'S FETE. . This feature of the Jabiles was a tremendous success, and was immensely enjoyed, not only by the hundreds of juveniles who participated in but by the still greater numbers of children of a larger growth who watched the youngsters enjoying the first general play-ground they have ever been provided with is Shanghai. The great success of this portion of the programme must in a large measure be attributed to the untiring efforts of Mr. Joseph Welsh, the Chairman of the Children's Entertainment Sub-Committee, and of the non-commissioned and petty day officers and men of the British Navy, more particularly those of the Caroline. At two o'clock the enclosure at the Grand stand was well filled, while some two hundred chidren of all Foreign nutionalities were ranged on the Stand, the boys casion. on one side, the girls on the other, to sing "The Jubilen Song." Northey superintended this portion of the programme, which was carried out with great spirit. In addition to the more legitimate athletic exercises there were various games which boys onjoy, including the much loyed " Three shies a penny," as well as tugs of war. But we think it was upon the Recreation Ground, which the sallors had fitted up for the little boys and girls, that the scenes of juvenile festivity were most. alluring. The ingenuity of the sailors had provided an almost endless variety of means of oujoyment for the youngsters, and without their ssistance we fear the Jubilee Committee would have exhausted all their resource and not provided half the fun the hearty enthu-iasm and onte contrivances of the jolly Jack Tars provided. Games new to the Shanghai boy and girl were here introduced for the first time, Aunt Sally, a fantastic life-sized creation in a print gown, and, a tow wig, with a cutty-pipe in her mouth, embued her youthful admirers with the most frantic desire to smash her up with the short hamboo cadgels the sailers had provided, and the staidest piece of Shanghai precocity yielded to the pressing and comical invitation of the gallant ter, who "ran" Aunt Sally, to join in the noise, merry game, for which the prizes were oranges. Then alongside, another reckless sailor played at the slightly risky game of "The men in the cask," and the escapes which he had from annihilation at the hands of his youthful admirers, and the dexterity with which he let the other fellow's head, that would not feel them, receive all the whacks not only amused the youngsters, but kept crowds of grown-up people,-men who have hardly a laugh left in them after their long residence in Chiua, -enchanted and convulsed for hours together. Then there was the philosophic naval scientist with his electric bath, and tempting ten and twenty cout pieces which defied the enger little many coloured fists to grab them, though one Spartan youth scorned the tingling current and annexed almost his two dollars in small coin, - Another nautical Old Malwa ...... $590 0 to 12 entertainer ran the emiting game of "Three Older Malwa ...... $600) shies a penny," and wonderful were the shooting Oldest Malwn ...... $820 2 to 3 and loud the laughter of the crowds he attracted.
